Hello,

I hope that the weather is treating you well! I'm sending this message to let you know that I have officially accepted a position as a graduate student of the Acting Studio Drama School at PACE University. This is something I have wanted for a long time, but did not believe I was talented enough to achieve, and so I want to thank you for your time, recommendation, and training, but most of all for your encouragement. It means the world to me that people I respect so much would give me their stamp of approval, thank you for being one of them. In the future, should you need anything from me, I would be so happy to oblige. Spring is on the way! I hope it brings you peace.

My eternal regards,

Alex Matsu

Hi Jess!

I am taking a career dynamics course of which I have to interview an individual. I was wondering if I could interview you? I'm supposed to interview someone, as well as send questionnaires, and a career "placement/matching" quiz. The questioners/quiz is to be sent prior to the interview. We are investigating individuals careers to see if they have achieved their dream jobs, and to see if their quiz results align with their current profession.

Best,

Brianna

Dear Ms. Hanofee,

When I reached out to Jessica Barkl and asked who I should contact regarding my desire to share my experience as a parent, she gave me your email address.

It is with sincerest gratitude that I express to you my appreciation to Jessica Barkl and what her presence at SUNY Sullivan has meant to my daughter, Janine Bellacicco.

Janine is graduating as a Theatre Major this June, 2020. Janine arrived at SUNY Sullivan undeclared, then switched to an English major after her first semester and lastly declared her major in Theatre and is receiving her AA in Theatre Arts next month.

After three years at SUNY Sullivan, Janine is finally on track. She has been accepted to SUNY Potsdam as a theatre major and is excited and motivated to continue there in August.

Separate from her 'theater love,' that she did not discover until a year after graduating high school while at SUNY Sullivan, her appreciation and trust of Jessica was the key. I am 100% sure Janine would have dropped out had it not been for Jessica and her patience, acceptance and demand that Janine do her absolute best.

In honor of Janine's success and Jessica's fostering of that success with SUNY Sullivan's Theatre Program, I'd like to discuss with someone at SUNY Sullivan how I can start and sponsor a scholarship for a theatre major student. I have some ideas as to what the criteria would be etc., based on it fostering a student like Janine. Please reach out to me at your convenience to discuss this further.

Again, a shout out to Jessica Barkl for being a driving force that led (dragged?) Janine to academic success at SUNY Sullivan.

With gratitude,

Good evening. I have been trying to get this E-mail done but I am just getting around to it. I would like to thank you for all that you have done for Genesis. Genesis has grown so much under your leadership. I see a significant change in her and I attribute this to you. Genesis respects you so much and definitely follows directions given to her by you. Genesis is expressing going on to pursue her Bachelor's Degree. Genesis is especially excited about the upcoming audition with the Kennedy Center. I am praying that she does well. I have been discussing with Genesis her desire to move forward with her education. We have been looking into some universities and the one which stands out the most to me is Western Connecticut State University. I would appreciate it if you have the chance to look into this university for us. WCSU appears to have a very good theater program which is what Genesis is looking for along with an abroad program. I don't want to hold Genesis back from pursuing her dream of the theater but, I do need help with this. When would she need to apply if this university is her fit? I am thinking that Genesis may have to begin in Spring 2019 due to finances among other things. Yes, she will be continuing on with her education I just think that she may need the Fall 2018 semester to wind down before beginning on to the next quest for learning. Please get back to me with any suggestions. Yes by all means I am open to suggestions and plenty, plenty, plenty of advise. I have respect for you and your opinions concerning Genesis. All of her confidence is in Jessica. Lastly, Your baby registry. Please forward that information to me please. I did not forget. Thanks for everything.

Hi Jessica,

I hope all is well with you, Zia and Nick I told mom that you said 'hi' and she also says 'hi'. I'm also doing well in both my Biology and Women's History courses, though Bio is tough I'm sticking through and doing the best I can as I enter this final month. I should hope and prepare for that C average as I have been doing well in participating and classwork as well as the small quizzes we do every and I mean EVERY Thursday on what we learned the previous lesson.

The clock's ticking and stress is the least of my problems, in all honesty I am calm for now though the thought that crosses me now is will I make it? Will I be able to transfer? I don't want to think about the Final that determines it all for me, I want to think about passing with a C or higher. Anyway that's just one thing to put into God's hands and leave it, another thing I wanted to tell you about is the Talent show, I actually have plans that I made months in advanced, I'm actually glad that I didn't give you a straight "Yes" or "No" answer beforehand otherwise I would feel more guilty for not being able to attend. I wouldn't want to miss anything dealing with Theater if it was a choice, but sadly this can't be ignored.

Hope you had a great Thanksgiving break with family and friends, send Zia my love and tell Nick I said "What's up Turf?" I'm sure he'll immediately remember the first lesson he taught us Acting I alumni.

Sincerely Genesis Shuler 😊😘😘

Hey Jessica,

It's been a while and I apologize for not getting back to you lately school has been a bit more challenging now that midterm week is approaching. So far I'm still in the clear for my History of Women class, I've also met a friend who's like a partner in crime when it comes to studying for tests and testing myself on certain lectures, the both of us were also the only two that passed our exam out of thirteen others because we studied like crazy for an unexpected exam that the Professor randomly did. (Yay!)

My Biology course is okay too, challenging. Very VERY challenging, in all honesty I should've taken Bio 2 not 1 because it would've been less difficult, but there are no shortcuts in life so yeah I'm just going to pull through. Though the course itself is challenging it hasn't been too much for me to handle yet, I know the work it's just that I sometimes make little mistakes that can turn into bigger mistakes, luckily the mistakes that I've made have been looked into when it comes to lectures and I find it easier to understand. I hope all of well with you, Nick and Zia. I know that the school year is challenging and tiring at times for you so I understand if you don't get back to me for a while (Though by some miracle you do) still, I just wanted to keep you updated on my progress and to tell you that I miss you. I hope to eventually drop by Sullivan and see you. I'm sure lots of new theater majors are in yours or Nick's Acting I, Acting II, Theater History I and II classes, I'm also sure that they're learning well and that they know not to mess with you guys lol.

I really miss you Jessica, you, Nick, Bradley, Gabe and Dani were all wonderful professors that I really adore and am happy to have been given. I really hope that I can make you all proud as I continue with these two classes. Wish me luck and I'll see you real soon.

Sincerely Genesis Shuler 😊

I don't know how to express my gratitude to you, but whatever you told my parents made a very big difference. I can't believe that they are now apologizing to me for not allowing me to be in a show and also for not believing in whatever I have always been telling them. Yesterday I was so upset with them, had to stay calm with all the anger, and couldn't sleep the entire night. But now I'm relieved because of you, I don't know how much I can thank you, but thank you.
Love you and have a goodnight.

Hey Jess,

I wanted to thank you for helping/guiding me through a lot of the bullshit in my life in the last 2 years. I have a hard time doing this kind of stuff in person, but I do want you to know you are very appreciated. I'm like the worst student right now, but if you need anything in the meantime to help with the theater program, let me know. I could use the distraction.

I might've misunderstood what Tammy was trying to tell me, and I didn't want to get into it with you before opening night of your show. But essentially what she said was that my financial aid will not cover just the one biology course, so, she said I could take an online science class through open suny that is 4 credits and is approved by the school in the winter, and then register for the spring as an education major with a concentration in English so I will have enough credits to be able to compete. I feel very strongly in the work that I have done for this competition, and I want to compete and am willing to do what it takes to do so. I know this is very complicated, and thats my fault, I should've listened to you from the beginning with bio, but I'm me, and you're you... and yeah. Tammy sent me to talk to a few people on Monday to figure it out, and hopefully all goes well. I just didn't want to give you my misunderstood information, and cause miscommunication.

Again, thank you for all your help with everything, you're a real inspiration to me. No one works as hard as you, and you deserve more than how you've been treated. So I'll stop kissing ass, great job on Fun Home!!

P.S the scene where Bruce gets hit by the truck was the best thing I've seen in theater in a long time. BRILLIANT.
